Position an infrared (IR) emitter over the IR receiver of each audio source component you wish to control from the amplified keypads. Plug the IR emitters into the source distribution module (Photo 12). You'll have to use the Channel Vision remote to teach it to control the keypads. With a little luck, you'll turn on the music and everything will work perfectly. If it doesn't, you most likely have a loose connection or mixed-up wires. Double-check all your connections. Be sure the wires are punched down completely and connected in the right order. If you're still having trouble, contact your salesperson for help.
